Dean's Address

Dear Colleagues, Students, and Friends,

We have reached the end of another calendar year. 2023 was especially important as it is the year of our precious Turkish Republic's centennial. We have put together an extra effort this year to commemorate, celebrate and cherish the founding of our Republic one hundred years ago. You can find in this newsletter a summary of these activities in commemoration of the centennial, encompassing our international and national events. Our faculty supports cutting edge, interdisciplinary research, and teaching, with a special focus on enhancing our scientific excellence.

We have organized international workshops and conferences at FASS with our international partners such as Cambridge and Columbia Universities. Our joint work with the Global Humanities network headed by Cambridge University included physical meetings in Cambridge, a workshop on Republicanism at Sabancı University, and graduate student colloquium. We organized joint workshops with the Dahrendorf programme at Oxford University, special issue workshops, book talks in addition to our regular seminar series for all our academic programs. FASS's international visibility is further reinforced by our projects, art exhibits, publications, and conference presentations, as compiled in this newsletter.
