

FASS NEWSLETTER

DEAN'S ADDRESS

Dear Colleagues, Students, and Friends,

Since our last newsletter in December 2021, profound new challenges have arisen. While we were expecting the pandemic to end soon, we once more confronted the reality of war and use of force in our geographical vicinity. It seems a new reality is upon us, signaling a systemic transformation underway in global and regional dynamics. Higher Education is undoubtedly affected deeply from this transformation and new global challenges. A new modus operandi is currently being discussed at the global level to restructure Higher Education, and we are, of course, not an exception. Despite this increased uncertainty surrounding us, we, as Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, remained productive as ever. This newsletter presents a compilation of all our activities since December 2021. Our research and teaching activities at FASS remain robust and demonstrate our resilience even in hard times. The activities we have organized at FASS along with the new teaching modes demonstrate that not only we were able to sustain our productivity, but also thrive.
